OGDEN RACE MEETING PROMISES BIG THINGS

More Than 200 Fast Thoroughbreds Already Here and Still Greater Number Will Take Part in the Races.

The coming meeting of the Watch Jockey club promises to be the most pretentious one ever held in Ogden, and with the numerous new features to be introduced by the management will no doubt eclipse all former meetings held here.

Horses to the number of 200 are now quartered here and at Salt Lake, and with those on the way from Oakland and eastern points will swell the list to nearly 300, among which are star performers from Juarez, Jacksonville and Pimlico. The great number of high class thoroughbreds which will participate in the numerous events insure racing such as is seldom seen in the west. Starter Joseph Weber is expected within a few days. Mr. Weber, while new to the local racegoers, is one of the best

THREE COLLEGES IN BIG UTAH CONTESTS

BY "DOC" RAYBOULD.

Following one week after the state high school track meet, which was the largest affair of its kind ever held in the state, the Utah Inter-collegiate track and field meet, the premier athletic event of the spring in this state, will take place at Cummings field next Saturday afternoon. The contestants this year will be the University of Utah, the Brigham Young university and the Utah Agricultural college. This will be the smallest number of schools that have been entered in this meet for many years, but the strength of these schools indicates that it will be the most closely contested meet in years.

The Latter-day Saints university and the Brigham Young college of Logan have been unable to stand the advance made by these other institutions in athletics and have consequently dropped to the high school class. This raises the standard of Utah athletics materially, as the athletes who compete in the Utah conference have to comply with practically the same qualifications as those of the big eastern meets. Neither of these schools has figured seriously in the race for first place during the last three years, so their elimination will result in a neck and neck fight between the three remaining colleges for first place, with the best athletic talent in the state representing them.

THOMPSON WILL BE MATCHED AT SALT LAKE

SALT LAKE, May 14.—Manager R. A. Grant, under whose direction the Thompson-Sullivan fight was staged at Saltair, announced this morning that as soon as the necessary improvements could be made at the Saltair coliseum another good boxing contest would be staged there. He said that the coliseum would be remodeled and made absolutely safe, so that a repetition of Thursday night's accident would be impossible.

The stage of the coliseum will be removed and the ring placed in the center of the auditorium. Two subways and two overhead entrances will be placed in the building to avoid the crowding that resulted from only one entrance being used Thursday night. Mr. Grant said that the success of Thursday's contest insured the future of the boxing game in Salt Lake and warranted the remodeling of the coliseum to form an ideal boxing arena.

The next bout at Saltair will probably be between "Cyclone" Johnny Thompson and either Dick Hyland or Frank Picato. It will be staged about the first week in June. "Bird" Collins is eager to get a chance at Thompson, and he may be taken on next. Plans are being made to get a chance at Thompson, and he may be taken on next. Plans are also being made to get Maurice Thompson of Butte for "Bird" for a ten-round bout in Salt Lake, and to match Johnny Thompson with the winner.

Pete Sullivan, who lost to Johnny Thompson Thursday night, has been shown to be as popular in defeat as in victory. The fans are unanimous in declaring that Pete lost because he had an "off night," and that if he had been himself the result would have been different. They are eager to see him matched with some good man on one of the open holding dates. They believe that his good record entitles him to the opportunity to make up for his defeat by Thompson.

RICKARD IS WORRIED OVER REFEREE QUESTION

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—Tex Rickard, who is mightily worried these days over the prospect of a continued deadlock in the selection of a referee for the Jeffries-Johnson fight, paid another visit to the John camp today, but came away shaking his head sadly. While Tex was not inclined to be communicative, it is known that he suggested to Johnson that he accept Eddie Smith of Oakland as the referee, and that Johnson flatly refused to listen to any such proposition. Two fighters are not going to reach any agreement, although there is a slight possibility that Eddie Graney will be selected. Sam Berger is opposed to Graney, however, and denies that there is any truth in the story from Ben Domond to the effect that Jeffries was willing to accept Graney.

"For a number of reasons," said

THE REAL BASEBALL FAN

(BY OTTO FLOTTO)

Who is the real fan? Is the chap that sits in the grandstand and on the bleachers, giving full vent to his leather lungs, shouting the praises of the team so he can be heard a block away every time the boys are winning, the real fan? Or is the fellow that is always there with the shout and the hand-shake when the team is losing? The man that is trying to instill encouragement into the players so that they will put forth their best efforts—is he the real fan?

If it were left to you which would be your choice? It takes a pretty game man to come from behind and win out, while on the other hand the faint-hearted individual appears the gamest man in the world when he is in front and winning easily. But once you catch up with him he blows up like a toy balloon. Not so with the game man. When you catch him he grinds his teeth and puts forth greater efforts and tries harder than ever to win. It is just this condition that prevails in all walks of life and makes only about a fifth of us more than ordinarily successful. If everybody was game and never said die, we would be making each other up in our mad endeavor to reach the top.

I know of a time when the "root-

OLDFIELD FAILS TO MAKE TIME

DENVER, May 14.—Bad track conditions prevented Barney Oldfield from approaching the world's record for a mile on a circular track, which he went after this afternoon in his 200-horse power Benz at the Overland park. New track records were established, however, Oldfield covering the first mile in 55 seconds and the second in 54, a new track record for both the mile and two miles.

The world's record for a circular dirt track is 50 4-5 seconds. Ben Keracher, driving a Darracq, attempted to break the same record, but the heavy track kept him from bettering 55 1-5 seconds.

NEBRASKA WINS FROM KANSAS U

LAWRENCE, Kas., May 14.—In one of the fastest dual track meets ever held on McCook field, Nebraska university won from Kansas university today 55 to 53. The last event, the mile relay, gave the meet to the visitors. Haddock of Kansas equalled the American Intercollegiate record of 9 4-5 seconds in the 100-yard dash.

ODDS ON BIG FIGHT GRADUALLY SHIFTING

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—Odds upon the Jeffries-Johnson fight have shifted and Jeff is not now so strong a choice. It is expected that by ringside time even money will prevail. This is because of the appearance of Johnson's good condition. Fans wear of the impression that he was high in flesh and in poor shape. Jeff is now quoted 10 to 7 favorite, instead of 10 to 6, at which price the Californian opened.

AQUEDUCT MOURNS FOR KING EDWARD

NEW YORK, May 14.—The flag flying over the Aqueduct race track this week is at half mast in honor of King Edward VII. It was ordered placed thus by P. J. Dwyer, president of the club. "King Edward VII was the best friend of racing the world has ever known," said Mr. Dwyer.

Raymond Duncan Touts Greek Dope as the One Real Thing for James J. Jeffries

(By R. L. Goldberg.)

"Jimcoles Jeffrogs"—how does that sound to you, Alberta? If you feel that way about it, don't blame it on us. We got it from the gent who floats around town wrapped in a Turkish towel and a piece of rye bread.

Sure you've seen him! His name is Raymond Duncan. He and his sister, Isadora, are strong for the way the ancient Greeks did things, and have tossed all the hard-boiled laundry into the wash basket, wrapped themselves in a couple of table cloths and removed the shoes from their shoelaces. They are now closer to nature than an unpicked potato, and seem to be getting away with the bare article of apparel with wonderful success.

Raymond looks like a bunch of scenery, from an unsuccessful show that has found its way to the theatrical storehouse. But otherwise he claims to be in perfect health, and says he can lick anybody on the block.

One of Mr. Duncan's principles is his modest belief in the fact that he knows more about everything than anybody else. He can paint, talk, write music and literature, play poker, eat and do anything better than all the champions in every line—that is, he willingly makes this admission. All of which lead him into developing a mild interest in the Jeffries-Johnson battle.

No Laundry Bills.

"I honestly believe," said Mr. Duncan, as we discovered him eating his daily meal, which consisted of half an Italian olive and a slice of Arabian rye bread, "that Jeffries would have a better chance to win if he adopted the ancient Greek mode of living, which I and my family follow. He should discard all unnecessary clothes, because they overheat the mind and body, thus preventing well-organized thought and free circulation of the blood."

"Look at me. I have no laundry bills to worry about, no shoes to have mended, no socks to darn, and I never get a hair cut. My chief diet consists of olives and black bread. I don't know why I have confined myself to these foods. Maybe radishes and gumpuds would do just as well. The climate of Greece is not suited for the cultivation of gumpuds."

"Money is my least worry. I make everything I wear and raise everything I eat. My only expense is caffeine. And then, very often, the conductor thinks I'm a bundle of something and doesn't ask me for my fare. If Jeff's mind were as free from worry as my own, he would be able to use

KETCHEL WAS NOT DEFEATED

Sport writers frequently disagree on the outcome of pugilistic events, but in the report received here of the Ketchel-Langford bout and the stories published in the eastern papers, there is an awful variance. The telegraph reports had Ketchel badly tired in the sixth round and hanging on, while Harry Cashman, sporting editor of the New York American, says that just the reverse was the case. Here is his story:

With one of those ripping, slashing, thrown in at the finish spurts, that made him famous, Stanley Ketchel earned a clean victory over Sam Langford at the National Athletic club. Up to the sixth round it was anybody's fight. Langford held a nice advantage in the fourth. Ketchel earned all the laurels in the third; the balance was even. But in that never-to-be-forgotten sixth round Ketchel sprang from the corner with the ferocity of a lion. Before the negro could steady himself Stanley whipped both right and left to the body. Both hands landed clean and hard. Sam was hurt and showed it. For the next three minutes he was busier than a bird dog trying to escape more in the same place. If Philadelphia Jack O'Brien was in the house he learned a new lesson in tuncanning and holding. The agile "tar baby" seemed at times to be after the forward record. But as fast as he backed and ran away, Ketchel was always on top of him, mercilessly flailing him with both gloves. When all else failed Sam rushed into a clinch and hung on like grim death until Referee Jack O'Brien literally tore them apart. Once, when cornered, Sam ripped an uppercut through Ketchel's guard, but it passed harmlessly within an inch of the chin.

That was the sum total of Mr. Langford's offensive operations. In the closing period the apelike grin had faded from his face. He was being carried at a faster pace than he ever stepped in before, and the S. O. S. signal sounded.

Ketchel was always the aggressor from the first bell, and Sam willingly allowed him whatever honors he could gain from forcing the milling. In fact, Stanley's style seemed made to order for the speedy negro. As the white man bored in Sam always had his crushing hooks and counters in waiting with the famous uppercut to add spice and variety. But Ketchel boxed better than he ever did before. In the east he blocked dozens of knockout swings and got inside of as many more. A few found their mark, but not solidly, and the lithe, swaying white lad, whose clean skin showed up in sharp contrast against the deep brown of Langford's body, kept boring in for more, ever while his second shouted frantically for him to slow up a moment.

NAT REISS BARRED FROM EMERYVILLE

OAKLAND, Cal., May 14.—As a result of alleged criticism of the stewards of the new California Jockey club of the recent suspension of Jockey Kederis, Matt Reiss, a well known owner and trainer, was refused admission to the race track yesterday and his badge was forfeited. In addition the stewards also ruled that the horses which formerly belonged to Reiss and which have recently been turned over to Joe Tigus should be ordered off the track and their entries refused in the future. Trainer Tigus, who is in good standing at the track, is not affected by the ruling against Reiss.

BASEBALL TEAM FOR OGDEN NOW ASSURED

Sum Subscribed By Public-Spirited Citizens Mounts Higher and Higher—First Practice Game Week Hence.

Just one week ago, the Examiner predicted that, if the proper leader could be found to guide local fans out of the baseball wilderness, Ogden would have its usual representation in the Utah State league. During the week, thanks to the efforts of Walter E. Sanderson, "Dad" Gilmartin and Angus Kennedy, the success of the team is assured and with $1208.50 in the treasury last night, it is a certainty that the old-time Lobsters will be wearing their uniforms again this season.

This week Gilmartin will be busy organizing his champs and next Sunday he will have the first practice game of the season. It is likely that a number of old favorites will don the uniform this year, although some new blood will be drafted into service.

In addition to the fund already subscribed, more money will be added during the week through benefit games between the Weber and Elks' clubs, the date of which will be announced later and a benefit performance by the Theodore Lorich stock company at the Ogden theater, the entire proceeds of which will go to the cause of baseball in Ogden.

A total of $1600 is needed, but with the amount at $1208.50 and more assured, it is believed that this sum will be reached early this week. BEN DOMOND, Cal., May 14.—The lay-off enjoyed by Jeffries yesterday afternoon and this morning seemed to do him a world of good, for this afternoon he went at his work with all the ardor of a bow athlete, singling merrily all the while. No boxing was indulged in. Both Jack Jeffries and Joe Choynski were stripped for the fray, but the fighter disappointed his brother and plainly pleased Choynski by announcing he would do no boxing until late in the afternoon and then only to please the visitors to the camp. The afternoon was just warm enough to make gymnasium work inviting, but today Jeffries worked altogether in the shade, skipping the rope, punching the bag and shadow boxing and playing handball.

NAVY CREWS WIN.

ANNAPOLIS, May 14.—Navy first and second crews both beat Georgetown varsity, the former by four lengths and the latter by three-fourths of a length.

WRESTLING POSTPONED

Chicago, May 14.—Refusal of Mayor Busse to allow a permit for the wrestling bout between Frank Gotch and Zybzsko on Decoration day has seriously disarranged the plans of the promoters.

The match was to have been held at the ball park the afternoon of Memorial day. A purse of $25,000 had been hung up, of which Gotch was to have received $23,500 (win, lose or draw, while Zybzsko came in for $1,500).

In refusing a permit, the mayor was particular in explaining that the edict did not mean the shutting down on wrestling altogether.

"There is so much sentiment connected with this day," said Chief of Police Steward. "There are plenty of other days on which a wrestling match could be held and the promoters will have to put off the match."

"It certainly took us unawares," said one of the officials of the club which is promoting the match, last night, "but of course, we will abide by the decision. We figured that we could not offer such a big purse and hold the match any other time than on a holiday. We will be out about $5,000 counting the forfeit of $2,000 advertising and other expenses."

"If Gotch is willing we will postpone the bout to some later date. If not, Des Moines, Kansas City and Duluth stand ready to hold the match on the date scheduled for Chicago. We have not been able to reach Gotch, so we don't know how he feels about it."

GOOD BOXING MATCH TO BE HELD IN OGDEN

Arrangements were completed yesterday for a twenty-round boxing contest to be held at Ogden on May 27 between "Peanuts" Sinclair and Frankie Harden. The boys will weigh 122 pounds at 6 o'clock.

The match between these two boys should prove of particular interest to the fans after seeing the bout between Young Erlenborn and "Peanuts" Sinclair. These two boys boxed twenty rounds to a draw, and the bout was pronounced one of the best ever seen in Utah.

By his game showing and his clever work against Erlenborn Sinclair won for himself a great many staunch admirers, who believe that he is a coming champion. He has been boxing about a year and has never lost a battle.

Harden comes to Ogden to train with a great reputation in Colorado and Nevada. He is credited with a knockout over Young Erlenborn in seven rounds. He has also won from Kid Blackie, who boxed a draw with Erlenborn. Harden is much the same style of boxer as is Sinclair. He mixes things all of the time and has a punch that is constantly dangerous. The bout should draw well both from Salt Lake and Ogden.

JEFFRIES' LAY-OFF HAS AN EXCELLENT EFFECT

He seemed faster than ever and delighted the watchers with the form displayed.

"That little rest I had was just about the proper thing," said Jeffries just before the handball play commenced.

"The same old grind day in and day out becomes pretty tiresome, and a change, such as the walk I took to Santa Cruz, was almost as enjoyable as going to some good show."

CURES S. S. S. RHEUMATISM

The cause of Rheumatism is an excess of uric acid in the blood. The uric acid impurities get into the circulation by absorption, usually because of constipation, weak kidneys, and other systemic irregularities. Then the blood becomes weak and sour and irritating urate particles are formed in this vital fluid. When in this impure condition the blood can not furnish the necessary amount of nourishment to the different muscles, tendons, nerves and ligaments of the body. Instead it constantly steeps them in the briny acid matter, and the gritty, urate particles collect in the joints, which causes the pains, aches and soreness of Rheumatism. Liniments, plasters, etc. may relieve the acute pain of an attack but have no permanent good effect. There is but one way to cure Rheumatism and that is to purify the blood of the acid poison. S. S. S. goes into the circulation and attacks the disease at its head. It removes every trace of the sour, inflammatory matter, cools the acid-heated circulation, adds richness and nourishment to the blood and permanently cures Rheumatism. S. S. S. does not patch up, it cures permanently. S. S. S. is especially valuable as a remedy for Rheumatism because it does not contain a particle of harmful mineral in any form. It is purely vegetable, a fine tonic as well as blood purifier. Book on Rheumatism sent free to all who write.
